DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 3 is objected to because of the following informalities: in claim 3, line 9, change "a" to --said-- and line 12, change "a", second occurrence, to --said-. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35

U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35

U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tamai (2001/0035297) in view of Shimomura (JP6-153360).

Tamai discloses an electric wire and an inherent method thereof, comprising a first conductor (Figure 3a) which is coated with resin, and of which diameter is A, and a second conductor (11a) at two ends (only one shown) of the coated wire. Tamai also discloses a plurality of single winding members (10) being aligned, wherein the second conductors of adjacent said single winding members are joined each other. Tamai does not disclose the second conductor being of a truncated cone-shaped formed at two end of the coated wire and of which diameter at both end portions is 90% to 50% as large as diameter A nor the winding members being mounted on a stator. Shimomura discloses an electric wire (1,2) having truncated cone-shaped at an end portion. Tamai discloses that the second conductor (the end portion of the coated wire) can be in any shapes (Figures 3a-3c) so that the coated wire can be connected to a variety of electrical devices. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify the second conductor of Tamai to be a truncated cone-shaped as taught by Shimomura so that the coated wire can be joined to an electrical device having a receptacle with similar shape. It would also have been obvious to one skilled in the art to mount the winding members (10) of Tamai on a stator since using coated wires in an electric rotating machine (a stator) is known in the art. In addition, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claim 3 is allowed.
6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art of record does not teach or suggest a manufacturing method of an electric wire for an electric rotating machine winding comprising all the features as recited in the claim and in combination with a cutting step in which the second conductor is cut substantially in the middle place in a longitudinal direction of the second conductor, and the resin coating, which has been stripped off, is removed.
